WEST MAIN STREET, MONTICELLO.

A DELIGHTFUL COUNTRY.

WHILE this book is mainly intended for summer or temporary visitors, we cannot lose this opportunity to recommend the entire territory of our road to such people as desire to select a permanent residence, or one for at least eight months in the year; friends of nature, seekers of health and repose cannot find more suitable localities. Our mountain-sides teem with picturesque spots where magnificent views can be had over all the surrounding country.

In the autumn, when the leaves are tinted, our hill-sides are gorgeous in their various hues; then is the time to be in the country, but unfortunately many cannot then spare the time; there is no question, however, the taste for all-year-round country life is growing fast, and to this we appeal.

Already a number of country clubs and several individuals have seen the beauty of our valleys and have erected club-houses, cottages and residences.

All tastes can be gratified, and sites utilized on rough boulder-strewn hill-sides, or on level lands in the river bottoms.

Our highways are the best in the State.

Riding, driving, boating and all out-door exercise can be had at every hand's turn.

We are close to the city; we have daily mails, telegraphs and telephones; all necessaries of life can be had good and reasonable.

The land speculator or boomer has not as yet invaded our territory. Farms are cheap; delightful residence sites can be had for a song.

If you have a taste for open air, dry as the Colorado Mountains, come to the "Shawangunks," here is your place within one hundred miles of New York.

This Company will haul for half rates all building material used in construction of new hotels on the line of this road.

We have no land to sell, but will gladly advise with prospectors.

PORT JERVIS, MONTICELLO & NEW YORK R. R.

NEAR MONTICELLO.

THAT REST YOU NEED.

“Wild tracts of forest ground, and scattered groves,
And mountains bare, or clothed with ancient woods,
Surrounded us; and as we held our way
Along the level of the glassy flood,
They ceased not to surround us; change of place,
From kindred features diversely combined, Producing change of beauty ever new.”

THE actual necessity for a summer outing has been established beyond dispute. The growth of the American nation has brought it to an age of the most severe competition, calling forth all the energies of the business and professional man, permeating even into his social life. No matter how pleasant, social amenities are a tax on the strength of wives and daughters. The vitality expended in various pursuits of life, business or social, must be renewed in some way.

A requisite amount of rest and recreation is a duty you owe to yourself. If you can be induced to invest in the summer outing in a thoroughly practical way, you will readily perceive the balance on the profit side of the account. If experienced, you will testify that more can actually be accomplished in forty-eight or fifty weeks of business effort, with the other two to four weeks spent in recreation, than by close application for the whirling fifty-two weeks of the year. Then, if you too closely apply yourself, you lose the advantage to be gained by a perspective view of your affairs, business or social, which can only be had at a distance, with the minor and worrying details removed from the foreground.

To many who have carefully weighed these points and decided in favor of the recreative change, the task of planning the best way to spend the time is enough to remove the desire for the trip. You know, in a general way, that any change will be beneficial, even if only a change of work; but how can you get the very best results? How often have you seen a neighbor or friend, after arranging for a few weeks, during which the regular employment is laid aside, spend the whole time at home, and go back to the old life without the light step and hearty vigor which characterizes the man who toured, golfed, hunted, or fished, breathing new life, and dollar upon dollar's worth of renewed vitality in the fresh air of the mountains?

Those who most need recreation are usually the ones to say: "Yes, but I haven't time or knowledge to intelligently plan a trip or select a place to visit." Don't try to. Let some one whose experience has made him competent plan the trip, and submit the plan to you. In a few minutes' time you can point out wherein your case will require different treatment, and let him revise it. Don't you enjoy a dinner better if your hostess takes the matter in her own hands and sets the sumptuous repast before you? If you made the menu, with a thousand other things on your mind, would the repast be so complete?

For some years many prominent people have regularly written us to plan their summer outing. Every year has brought us a large number of these letters from people in all walks of life. Wide-awake clerks write: "I have $25; want recreation only." Tired stenographers: "I have two weeks, $30 to invest, need rest." Instructors in the schools: "I have plenty of time, not over $40 for traveling expenses, and want first rest—then recreation."

We account for the growth in numbers of those who write us yearly to the success we have attained in pleasing those who have asked our advice, and this natural growth has awakened us to the realization of the great demand for suggested tours and trips, resulting in this little book.

Bicycle riders cannot find better roads. They are fully equal to the celebrated Delaware Water Gap roads, being constructed of the same material (calcareous shale), and are as smooth as a billiard table.

The good opportunity for bicycle riding has been further improved by the closing of the Delaware & Hudson Canal, thus enabling riders to use the tow-path, which formerly was prohibited.

At Huguenot, one branch of the road runs to Monticello, 20 miles; the other to Summitville, 18 miles distant, where close connections are made with the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad, connecting north and south.

Leaving Huguenot, running northeast, the next stop reached is Rose Point.

WHERE the great shale banks are located. A picturesque spot. The road, turning in a sharp angle due north, enters the narrow, wild valley of the Neversink River, unsurpassed for its natural grandeur. The road winds around the mountain-side, whilst hundreds of feet below, like a silver band, runs the turbulent river, rolling and tossing over boulders and rocks in its mad career to reach the valley.

We call the special attention of all those who are interested in good roads to the deposits of OAKLAND is the next point reached; a romantic village in the valley where the Neversink River and the Bush Kill join, both streams affording excellent trout fishing. The large blue-stone quarries, operated by the North River & Oakland Blue-stone Company, employ many hands the year round, and are of interest to visitors; being located high up in the mountains, they afford a magnificent view over the surrounding country.

The Beaver Dam is a large canal reservoir, located at the very top of the mountain, and contains many pickerel. We consider this one of the prettiest spots on the line. The Neversink River, which makes a sharp bend to the east here, runs rapidly through narrow, rocky gorges, the steep banks still clad with huge forest trees, which no vandal's hand has as yet defiled, and, may we hope, never will.

VILLAGE PARK, MONTICELLO.

ST. JOSEPH'S SANITARIUM.

This extensive property was purchased by the Sisters of St. Dominic in 1896, from the estate of the late Thomas Hunt Talmage, of New York City. It comprises an area of 1,172 acres, 250 of which are at present under cultivation, and what is not occupied by buildings and farm-yards is still thickly wooded. Its situation at a height of 1,947 feet above the level of the sea, makes it one of the most healthful resorts in the State. The scenery of the vicinity is, to say the least, charming. People who have visited it at all seasons always found something new to admire. And as for the air, a better tonic could scarcely be found. It braces up the most delicate person, so that the change is remarkable after a short sojourn there. In a happy speech, which Rt. Rev. Bishop McDonnell, of Brooklyn, made at the opening of the bazaar for the benefit of St. Joseph's Sanitarium, he said that the best advertisement for the invigorating effect of the climate of that locality would be a certain young sister whom he met there during a visit. Her health seemed hopelessly shattered. A few months later, while presiding at a religious ceremony at Amityville, the Bishop chanced to meet this same young sister, but so changed was she, that he scarcely knew the many applicants who wish to spend a few weeks in this delightful retreat. So satisfactory was the result of this small beginning, that it is safe to assume the future success of the sanitarium as assured.

her. But words fail to describe this beautiful highland region. To fully appreciate it one must go, see, and be conquered.

The sisters took possession of this property in December, 1896. The summer residence of the late owner, a magnificent structure, served as their temporary abode. This house the Rt. Rev. Bishop dedicated to St. Joseph, whence the name of the Sanitarium is derived. On the same day His Grace, most Rev. Archbishop Corrigan, of New York, sent the sisters a chaplain in the person of Rev. F. Arcese. Several cottages on the premises have been fitted up to accommodate some of

Despite the lack of funds, the sisters, trusting to Divine Providence, began to build, May 19, 1897. Ground was broken for five buildings, which were respectively dedicated to Our Lady of Lourdes, St. Dominic, St. Vincent Ferrer, St. Antonina, and St. Rose, of Lima. The corner-stone of the new convent was laid September 12, 1897, by His Grace, the Most Rev. Archbishop Corrigan, in the presence of a number of prominent clergymen. This spacious structure affords ample room for about forty sisters. Attached to it is a large chapel, a gem of its kind. Adjoining this are the apartments for the chaplain.

Thanks to the untiring activity of all concerned, the work progressed so rapidly that the 17th of March, 1898, saw the sisters installed in their new home. On the 30th of the same month Bishop McDonnell blessed the house and bell. The sisters have opened a boarding school for children of from 6 to 14 years of age. This is a boon for those whose delicate health does not permit them to attend the crowded city schools. Besides having the advantage of a superior education of mind and body here, they are instructed in various useful accomplishments. The sisters intend to open an academy for young ladies in this delightful spot. Plans for an industrial school have also been made, and will be carried out, if the sisters are aided in their noble work by charitably disposed persons. The place already boasts a post-office, known as St. Joseph's, erected through the efforts of the sisters.

The rooms are supplied with an abundance of light and ventilation. The accompanying cuts will but imperfectly illustrate what has been said, as the buildings were photographed at a season when the grounds were not yet cleared of debris. A large dam, a model of scientific engineering, has been constructed at St. Joseph's Lake, supplanting the old one, and furnishing sufficient water to light the grounds and buildings with electricity, and a splendid system of arc and incandescent lights have been established throughout. The long distance telephone is here, and the sanitary arrangements of the buildings are perfect. This is a favorite drive, and loads of visitors daily are found here. The convent is five miles from Monticello, over a good road. It is distant two miles from St. Joseph's depot.

Although in view of each other, the buildings are a short distance apart, excepting St. Vincent's and St. Antonina's, which are connected by a long corridor. These two are prominently situated on an eminence overlooking the surrounding country. All the latest improvements have been employed to make the institution a success.

HERE, at an altitude of 1,700 feet above the ocean, is Monticello, the County seat of Sullivan, and one of the most charming resorts in the State. The village is situated on rolling land, beautifully laid out, with broad, shady streets, and with private residences and grounds exceedingly attractive. It has a population of about 1,800, many of whom are people from New York City and Brooklyn, who have made it a place of permanent residence. From high hills in the immediate vicinity, extensive views of the outlying country may be enjoyed. To the east and northeast the Highlands of the Hudson and the Catskills are plainly visible to the naked eye. In the west are outlined the mountains of Pennsylvania beyond the Delaware Valley. The atmosphere is pure and bracing. Fevers of any kind never originate in this region, and it is particularly beneficial to those afflicted with diseases of a pulmonary nature. Heat never prevents refreshing sleep, and neither dampness nor fog render evening or morning disagreeable. There are trout streams, and the best of bass and pickerel fishing in a number of lakes in the vicinity. Katrina Falls, a picturesque cataract with grand surroundings, Edward's Island in the Never-sink, Mongaup Falls, and the beautiful grove bordering the eastern shore of Lake Kiamesha, are among the favorite resorts. Besides the unsurpassed fishing, the autumn season brings abundance of game—partridge, woodcock, and other small game being especially plentiful. Monticello enjoys the proud distinction of having one of the finest water supplies to be found in the State. The crystal waters of Lake Kiamesha are carried to all parts of the village—an inexhaustible supply, pure and healthful. There are Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Catholic churches in the village. The educational advantages are of the first order; a graded school with its corps of trained instructors being one of the features of the place. The very best of hotels, and many other attractions might be added to those set forth, to make Monticello not only a summer resort, but a delightful “all-the-year” abode.

An Annual Coaching Parade is held at the end of August in connection with the Agricultural Fair, which is a very attractive feature, and is visited not only by the local people, but by every summer visitor for miles around, and is quite a feature at the closing of the season.

Hops alternate in the different hotels nightly.

A splendid highway has been constructed, running for one mile through the middle of the village, which gives excellent bicycle riding.

ON LAKE KIAMESHA.

LAKE KIAMESHA.

Post-office and Railroad Station, Monticello, N. Y., one and a-half miles from Lake.

LAKE KIAMESHA, situated about one and a-half miles from Monticello, is one of the most beautiful sheets of water in Sullivan County. On its eastern shore it is wooded to the water's edge, and through this beautiful forest of oak and pine there is a splendid winding drive, as well as innumerable walks over the soft turf and green moss, from which, through the trees, can be seen glimpses of the clean, calm waters of the lake. Ferns and laurels add to the delicious coolness of this beautiful natural park. On the northern shore is the Kiamesha Lake House, and all around the lake are cottages and boarding places, at which boats may be secured for a row on this lovely sheet of water. On the western and southern shores the landscapes are magnificent; the ground rises in gentle, undulating slopes. Handsome cottages and beautiful residences are continually springing up. All around the lake and close to its limpid and sparkling water is a road on which wheelmen and horsemen may drink in the most delightful views, and in the hottest weather may taste the sweet coolness of Kiamesha Lake.

LAKE KIAMESHA.

MONTICELLO, and the surrounding country, offering as it does so many advantages to the summer sojourner, it may not be amiss to put before the angler and gunner in a few words what he may expect to secure if he has the time and inclination to go in this section in search of spoils. In the fall, woodcock, partridge, rabbits, and other small game are abundant. "Speckled beauties," bass, and pickerel can be secured also. No one ever comes away empty-handed, and good bags are the rule, not the exception. Larger game—deer, bear, foxes, wild-cats, etc., do not run down the main street, but are frequently shot a few miles outside of the village. The autumn months are particularly pleasant in Sullivan County, and a day's shoot cannot fail to be helpful in many ways, without taking in account a deer, a good bag of partridges, or rabbits to show friends who have not the good fortune to be able to spend a few days in glorious Sullivan County.

Race Between a Deer and a Passenger Train.
 PORT JERVIS, March 18.—Engineer Darby, who runs the passenger train on the Port Jervis and Monticello Railroad, had an exciting chase with a deer yesterday. He was passing through Hartwood, when a fine doe, which was drinking in the lower pond, was frightened by the noise of the train, and ran up the bank and down the track in advance of the locomotive. The engineer pulled the whistle open, but the deer kept on the track and ahead of the screeching machine for full half a mile and then bounded into the woods.

Port Jervis Evening Gazette, November 13th, 1899.

THE PRESIDENT HUNTS WITH A TRAIN.

A peculiar incident happened on the Port Jervis, Monticello & New York Railroad Friday last. The President went up the road on Conductor Baker's freight train Friday forenoon, and as usual stood on the hind end of the train overlooking the track, when near St. Joseph's both he and Conductor Baker discovered a fluttering object in the middle of the track, both being keen sportsmen, at once saw it was a wounded ruffed grouse, and in a second the President told the conductor to stop the train and "retrieve" the bird. This was quickly accomplished, the engineer jumped off his engine, ran back and anxiously inquired what he had struck, his conscience was bad, as several unfortunate cows had been sent to their happy ends lately. The President laughingly replied, "You struck my dinner," and as a fact, the locomotive struck a flying grouse as it crossed the track. We believe this is the first time a railroad President went hunting with a freight train, but it is a fact.

ing him that Gen. Wilson will receive him with the honors due to his rank.

RACE WITH A DEER.

A Fine Buck Keeps Ahead of a Train on the Port Jervis and Monticello Road.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Engineer Tom Darby of the Port Jervis and Monticello Railroad has, perhaps, had more lively races with wild deer than has any of his brethren. To-day occurred the most exciting race in all his experience. While the train was in the vicinity of Rose's Point a fine buck stepped upon the track from the wilderness which lines the road on either side and watched the train as it approached. It stamped its feet and wiggled its tail until the train was within fifty feet of it, and then skipped away down the track. Darby put on all steam and the deer increased its pace. For a good mile the race was continued. At one time, Darby avers, the train was so close to the deer that had he been on the cowcatcher he could easily have touched it. The deer increased its speed, and then attempted to jump the wire fence, but in doing so caught its forefeet in the wires and turned a complete somersault. It was stunned for a few seconds, and then jumped into a lake close by the track and swam for the opposite shore.

"Abrupt and sheer the mountains sink
At once upon the level brink,
With just a trace of silver sand
Marks where the water meets the land."

THE drive from Monticello to White Lake is one of the features of the trip. Mountain stages meet all trains at Monticello, and the road leads over hills by easy grades; the views en route are varied and grand.

White Lake is a beautiful sheet of pure, clear water. It is the deepest lake in the county; actual measurement at the northern end gives a depth of 80 feet, and the narrows 70 feet. No one who has not visited White Lake can appreciate the attractive loveliness of this place. Magnificent views can be had from the surrounding hills. The lake slumbering beneath, when dotted with boats, presents a sight which one never tires of seeing. Here, indeed, one may secure the undisturbed repose calculated to please those who relish retirement from the busy scenes of active life. To crown all, here is an atmosphere as delightful as any on the globe, so that those who wish to combine rare scenery with healthfulness of climate, will find a summer sojourn in this vicinity most beneficial. The high altitude renders the vicinity of White Lake cool and breezy; many cases can be cited of the rapid recovery of those suffering from malarial and pulmonary disorders. The lake has been recently stocked with bass, and the favorite sport of black bass fishing is now one of the attractions; bass weighing five and six pounds are frequently taken. Connected with White Lake by a channel is Amber Lake. The peculiar charm of this lake is its absolute seclusion. The primitive woods shut in and surround it on every side, so that nothing but primeval nature can be seen.

MAMAKATING VALLEY.

SUMMITVILLE DIVISION, "Through the Mamakating Valley."

MAKING close connections at Summitville with the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad trains for New York, and all north-bound trains. Situated partly in Orange and partly in Sullivan Counties, running due east and west. It was first settled by the Dutch and Huguenots, the descendants of which are still to be found in nearly all the farms throughout the valley. The roads are excellent, affording good driving and bicycling.* Nearly every farm house takes summer boarders, and travelers have the choice of both our connections—either the Erie R. R., at Port Jervis, or the New York, Ontario & Western R. R., via Summitville.

Through this valley runs one of the oldest highways in the State; a continuation of the "King's Highway," running from Kingston on the Hudson to Philadelphia. The old Dutch settlers as far back as 1620, built this road originally to carry out the product of mysterious mines said to have been located in the Shawangunk Mountains; the road was then called the "Peenpack Trail." The hallucinations of hidden wealth in these then wild wood-lands caused many grievous disappointments when the so-called valuable ores were submitted to the crucible; they turned out to be pyrites or "fools' gold;" yet fairy tales of the "lost mine" are still heard. However lead has been mined extensively near Wurtsboro, and the old smelting plant, shafts, etc., can yet be seen.

The main stream intersecting the valley is "Basha Kill;" some historians claim it is a corruption of the Dutch of "Betje" or "Elizabeth." Others, more romantically inclined, claim it took its name from the Indian Chieftainess "Basha Bashiba," of the "Lena Lenapes," one of the branches of the great tribe of the "Delawares," whose hunting ground was in this valley, which is said to have literally swarmed with turkey, deer, bear and all kinds of fish. Even to this late day it offers a great field to sportsmen. The "Kill" is navigable for canoes everywhere, and offers a good day's sport even to the timid.

IT IS QUITE a village, and boasts of 500 inhabitants, three good hotels, plenty of cottages and boarding houses. From here the formerly famous Newburgh and Cohecton turnpike runs to Monticello, affording a beautiful drive, with varying scenery of mountain, brook and lakes, of which are "Lord" and "Masten," covering a large area and affording excellent fishing. The village derives its name from the two brothers Wurts, of Philadelphia, who were the promoters and originators of the present Canal.

Washington Irving wrote in 1834 when he visited here in company with Vice-President Van Buren :

“ The traveler who sets out in the morning from the beautiful village of Bloomingburgh, to pursue his journey westward, soon finds himself, by an easy ascent, on the summit of the Shawangunk. Before him will generally be spread an ocean of mist, enveloping and concealing from his view the deep valley and lovely village which lie almost beneath his feet. If he reposes here for a short time, until the vapors are attenuated and broken by the rays of the morning sun, he is astonished to see the abyss before him deepening and opening on his vision. At length, far down in the newly revealed region, the sharp, white spire of a village-church is seen, piercing the incumbent cloud ; and, as the day advances a village, with its ranges of bright-colored houses and animated streets, is revealed to the admiring eye. So strange is the process of its development, and so much are the houses diminished by the depth of the ravine, that the traveler can scarcely believe he is not beholding phantoms of fairy land, or still ranging in those wonderful regions which are unlocked to the mind's eye by the wand of the god of dreams. But as he descends the western declivity of the mountain, the din of real life rises to greet his ear, and he soon penetrates into the midst of the ancient settlements.”

A mile west of here is the grave of Manuel Gansalus, the first white settler in Sullivan County; a rough head-stone bears this inscription :

MANUEL GANSALUS is Gestorven de 18 April Anno 1758.

He was a Spanish nobleman who had embraced the Protestant faith and had to flee his country to escape persecution.

Opposite this historic spot is the famous Indian Council Rock, totally inaccessible except by a hidden rock-hewn path leading to the level top, where the sachems are reported to have held their meetings and esteemed it a sacred spot.

The cut illustrates our New Patent Check Book, and shows how a book with three checks to a page looks. We make them in all styles of checks and bindings, any number of checks to a page.

WE HAVE A SPECIAL BOOK for $3.75, any Bank Title, that could not be made to order for twice the money. Call and see it.

While we make a specialty of Our Patent Check Book, there are many other things in our line that we do equally as well, Printing, Engraving, Stamping, Lithographing, Blank Books, and everything connected with the Stationery and Printing business.
